NO. 11,107 40TH YEAR

COLORADO SPRINGS, COLO., MONDAY, AUGUST 28, 1911

PRICE FIVE CENTS

PORLAND WILL MAY MEAN NEW USE CYANIDE. RESUR SHORTLY IREATMENT

pending $100,000 to Replace Chlorination Process at Colorado City Mill

ST SECTION IN BY JAN. 1 modeled Plant to Be Among Best of Its Kind in the World Big Capacity

At an expense of about $100,000, the Portland Gold Mining company is substituting the cyanide for the chlorination process of treating ore at its mill in Colorado City. The first section capable of treating 200 tons daily, will be completed January 1, according to present plans, and the second section will be ready for operation by July 1. The present chlorination has a capacity of 350 tons in the two sections, with their combined capacity of 400 tons, are in use. The mill will keep in reserve of the old machinery, so that a new section capable of handling 150 tons will be ready for use at any time. It will not be operated, however, until ore is received for which this plant is especially adapted.

The cyanide plant will be for the treatment of the high-grade ore now being treated—the high-grade ore from Cripple Creek. The present tonnage of 350 tons per day, the mill handles approximately 40 percent from the Portland mine and the remaining 60 per cent being from the main body of the mine. The big plant at Victor, completed a year ago at a cost of approximately $300,000, will continue to handle the enormous mine dump and other ore extracted from the Portland property on Battle Mountain in present work. No custom ore is handled at the Victor mill.

Treat 30,000 Tons Monthly.
The main plant at Colorado City is remodeled; the company there will handle 400 tons of low-grade ore each day, 400 tons of high-grade ore at Colorado City, and 250 tons of tailings at the small mill in Colorado City, a total of 1050 tons of tailings a month.

Completion of the improvements at Colorado City will bring the total capacity of the mill to about $1,000,000. In addition to the market value of the mill, the company has secured a "Portland process" treatment which was devised by Portland, Ore., after many years of experiment at the Colorado City plant. The company maintains a regular chemical laboratory, and spends several thousands of dollars annually in experiment. Its process of treatment extracts profits from ore which a few years ago were thrown on as worthless.

Remodeled mill will be one of the best of its kind in the world. The Merrill filters, which have been such a success at the Home-Improvement in the Black Hills, and in large properties, will be used, and all of the improvements likely to be in accordance with the successful methods of ore treatment.

Result of the sectional system of the new process, the regular work of one will not be interrupted by the work of remodeling. The work, started for this change a year ago, and the actual work is in progress for some weeks.

ACK FOREST," NORTH INGS, SOLD

Denver and na Men Buy
Land—Terminal for Interurban Railway?

The "Black Forest," a tract of about 14,000 acres of timber land 16 miles north of Colorado Springs, and extending east and west, has been purchased by Omaha and Denver capitalists for approximately $150,000. H. R. Long of Denver is one of the men interested in the transaction.

Although purchased as an investment, the deal is significant in connection with the long-standing promotion of an electric railway connecting Denver, Colorado Springs, Pueblo and intermediate points. The plans of the Denver and Omaha men, it is understood, contemplate a resort scheme which will include terminals for the electric line.

The land is a natural park, and while its timber growth made it attractive to the investors it is said they will preserve the dense growth of pines as a nucleus for a summer resort that will be in attractiveness with other resorts of this kind in the Elkes Peak region.

Deal Long Under Way.
Negotiations have been under way for months, but were necessarily retarded by legal restrictions. Contrary to general belief, the land that has just been sold was not an asset of the Palmer estate, although the late Gen. William J. Palmer and eastern associates were the stockholders in the company that originally took up the grant.

It was known as the Colorado Pinery and Land company, and was controlled by New York and Philadelphia capitalists.

The company allowed its charter to lapse some time ago, and George A. Krause, resident executor of the Palmer estate in Colorado Springs, was appointed by the district court as trustee and authorized to liquidate the holdings. His administration of the property has resulted in its sale, subject to the approval of the district court, and the deal may be said to be practically closed.

The land included in the deal is not all of the "Black Forest," which is divided in three strips, one contiguous to Palmer Lake, and the other farther north. It is the middle strip, or the one in close range to Colorado Springs, that has been sold.

The land originally was taken up to supply ties for the Denver & Rio Grande railroad.

NEGRO ASSAULTER THOUGHT
ESCAPED OVER TEXAS LINE

DURANT, Okla., Aug. 27.—After searching 18 hours for an unknown negro who attempted to assault Mrs. A. Wilkerson at Colbert, 15 miles south of here, last evening, the pursuit was dropped this morning by Sheriff Hamilton.

Intense excitement followed the affair and another burning was anticipated if the negro was captured.

It developed today that the unknown negro dressed in woman's clothing and fled to the Wilkerson home. Mrs. Wilkerson fled when she discovered that the negro was a man. He seized her 3-year-old child and threatened to kill the child if she did not return. She ran to her husband, who was working in a nearby field, and gave the alarm. After carrying the child some distance towards the Red River, the negro dropped it and fled. It is thought that he escaped to Texas.

BITTER FIGHT ON IN CANADA REPUBLICAN PARTY, PORTUGAL, DIVIDED UNIONS WOULD BE IN CONTROL

Advanced Element Will Probably Force Solution of the Chamber

INSIST TAFT SEEKS TO ANNEX DOMINION
Fight Reciprocity for Economic and Sentimental Reasons.
Vote to Be Large

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 27.—Reports coming from all parts of Canada show the intensity of the election struggle, which is now under full headway, and they reflect also the position and progress of the various elements on the main issue, reciprocity between Canada and the United States.

Although the campaign comes while harvesting is at its height, conventions and political meetings are drawing audiences, unparalleled for size. It is conceded that a greater percentage of votes will be polled than ever before in Canada.

Reciprocity has continued the dominant issue since Premier Laurier and Opposition Leader Borden made their initial addresses. Since then Mr. Borden has remained in Ontario, speaking daily, while Premier Laurier, after one Ontario meeting, has swung over to the French-Canadian province of Quebec, where he has been addressing from one to two meetings each day, including Sunday.

Premiers Are Busy.
Meanwhile the premiers of various provinces and other leaders have been ranging themselves on the firing line. Premier Whitney of Ontario, Premier McBride of British Columbia, and Premier Hazen of New Brunswick have taken the stump in opposition to reciprocity, and in opposition to the return of Laurier candidates. Clifford Sifton, formerly a member of the Laurier ministry, is holding meetings in Ontario, in which he denounces the reciprocity agreement and the government for having made it.

The grounds taken for and against reciprocity are shown in the reports coming from all sections. The fight against reciprocity is made on both economic and sentimental grounds. The opposition speakers declare that agriculture in the United States is so much better developed than it is in Canada that the Canadian farmer will be swamped by the arrival of food products from the United States.

Say Taft Wants Annexation.
The sentimental grounds raised against the government is based on a speech by President Taft, in which he said that Canada "had come to the parting of the ways" as justification for having urged the reciprocity agreement.

The opposition still insists that President Taft has the annexation of Canada in view.

The fight for reciprocity is based by Premier Laurier and his followers on the economic advantages it will bring to Canada, and they denounce the annexation cry as a hollow device of the campaign.

The French-Canadian province of Quebec is regarded as the pivotal point in the election. Here Henri Bourassa, the opposition nationalist leader, is fighting.

NO DEAL IS ON, SENSELESS CRY SAY OFFICIALS DEATH KNELL OF 26

DENY NEGOTIATIONS FOR BIG MILL MERGER

Reported Consolidation of Portland and Standard
Plants Discredited

Reports from Denver are to the effect that the C. M. MacNeill interests are negotiating with the Portland Gold Mining company for the absorption of the Portland mill at Colorado City by the United States Reduction and Refining company, operating the Standard mill, also at Colorado City. The object of this, according to the report, is to give the reduction company a large plant, on a good-paying basis, to compete against the Golden Gate Mining company, which operates the Golden Gate mill at Colorado City.

The Portland plant treats about 350 tons daily, of which 10 per cent is from its own mine at Victor and the remainder from other properties in the Cripple Creek district.

Officials of the Portland company deny that negotiations are on, and say that although they have been approached with a proposition to lower their plant, nothing has materialized. They say that they expect no deal of any kind. J. Dawson Hawkins, president of the United States Reduction and Refining company, denies emphatically that a deal of any sort is on, while C. M. MacNeill points to the fact that he has retired from the reduction company, and says that he has no further interest in the milling business, and knows nothing whatever of any pending deal.

It is stated on good authority that a conference between Portland officials and representatives of the reduction company was held in this city yesterday, but those interested would say nothing except that no deal is on.

The fight between the Golden Gate, controlled by John T. Milliken of St. Louis, and the Standard mill of the reduction company, has been going on for several years, and shippers in the Cripple Creek district have been fitted materially as a result of the rate war. The Golden Gate has had the best of the proposition, and has signed up many long-time contracts with Cripple Creek properties. Milliken further strengthened his position by securing control of the two Moffat banks at Cripple Creek and Victor. The reduction company, on the other hand, is allied with some of the most powerful interests in the country, and if MacNeill and associates take a hand now, interesting developments may be expected, according to those in close touch with the situation.

60 HURT WHEN EXPRESS STRIKES SPREADING RAIL

MIDDLETON, Conn., Aug. 27.—Sixty persons were injured tonight, eight seriously, when an express train on the valley division of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad was wrecked by the spreading of rails. The train runs Sundays to the various shore towns along the sound.

Two baggage cars went down a 20-foot embankment and the first passenger coach ran into the derailed tender and was splintered. It was in this car that most of the injured were found.

The engineer was caught in the end of his engine and had to be chopped out, but escaped with a dislocated hip and bruises.

SEVERAL COMPANIES REPORTED HONEST

Insurance Commissioners Committee Exempts Certain Concerns From Criticism

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 27.—The special committee of the insurance commissioners of the United States made public at Milwaukee, August 23, a report of its investigations. In this report the business methods of a number of industrial, health and accident insurance companies were very strongly criticized by the committee, which at the same time made public a list of 14 insurance companies whose methods it had examined. The criticisms did not, however, apply to the Great Eastern Casualty company of New York, which was mentioned in the list of companies examined.

The insurance commissioners' committee on industrial, health and accident settlements, at a session in Detroit, reported that the Great Eastern Casualty company had none of the tendencies found open to criticism in some of the cases examined, and corrected its report on this company, as follows: "Considering as a whole the methods of this company are refreshingly honest, and the committee therefore cheerfully accords such company the commendation which it deserves."

The Standard Accident Insurance company of Detroit and the Massachusetts Accident company of Boston are also commended by the committee, which announced also that it found nothing worthy of special criticism in the methods of adjustment of claims of the American Assurance company of Philadelphia, the Equitable Accident Insurance company of Boston, or the Federal Casualty company of Detroit.

Not Even a Spark to Warrant Yell of 'Fire' at Penn- sylvania Picture Show

HUGE MINER STARTS RUSH
Rescuers Pick Own Children
From Mangled Mass at Foot of Narrow Stairway

CANONSBURG, Pa., Aug. 27.—Twenty-six persons were suffocated or trapped to death, 25 were seriously injured, and 20 were less seriously hurt last night in the senseless panic at a moving picture show at the Canonsburg opera house, according to figures compiled today.

How foolish the panic was, was developed fully today when those involved returned to their senses enough to relate just what occurred.

It transpired that there was no fire. The fatal rush for the exit was due alone to baseless fear.

It developed that not even a spark flashed. The film broke with a snapping noise and a bright light, was thrown on the screen. A frightened boy imagined it was fire and shouted out the death knell of more than a score of persons as he started the rush for the exit. Darius Dubrowski, a huge miner, jumped from his seat and ran wildly for the same exit. In a moment there was a flashing, struggling mass after him.

At the head of a narrow stairway, which leads to the street, the miner tripped. As he rolled down the stairs, he swept from their feet many persons who were waiting for their turn to enter the theater and soon there was a horrible pile of women and children and a few men at the foot of the steps. Dubrowski was probably the first person killed.

All Over Quickly.
It was all over within a short time. The stairway was jammed full from top to bottom and those behind could not get out.

Firemen, several policemen and a few level-headed citizens untangled the human mass. The unhurt and those slightly injured were pulled from the top of the pile. As they gained the street, they ran screaming like maniacs to all parts of the town. The seriously injured were sent home or taken to nearby hospitals. As the silent forms of those who had been suffocated or crushed were disentangled, the victims, many of them women and small children, were piled on the sidewalks.

Coroner James T. Hoffman has begun a rigid investigation. He arrived at the scene early today and within a short time had selected a jury. Measurements taken by the jurors showed the stairway leading to the second floor of the building, the main floor of the opera house, to be only six and one-half feet wide, while the doorway at the bottom is not more than eight feet high.

It is customary for the management of the theater to give two or three performances each evening and Saturday the moving picture operator was about to complete the first show when the film parted. Some of the audience had already begun to leave the building and others were on the stairway coming up.

Walk Over Bodies.
Dubrowski's wild flight through the theater and his subsequent fall down the stairs into those entering the building was the beginning of the death-struggling jam at the foot of the stairs. When the doorway had been filled up, still other persons walked over the bodies of those who had gone down and breaking the glass transom over the door, crawled through and dropped onto the street.

Manager Ferguson tried to stop the panic. Accompanied by his wife, he started for the stairs when the first alarm was given, but seeing there was no escape there, he made his way to the stage. Calling loudly to the frightened people to follow him he led the way to the rear of the stage and hundreds went out that way. In 10 minutes the opera house was empty and in half an hour 20 bodies had been recovered. Physicians came from the town and from nearby places, until 35 men were at work.

Of the 26 dead 14 were children.

SEC. FISHER WELCOMED AT CORDOVA, ALASKA

CORDOVA, Alaska, Aug. 27.—Secretary of the Interior Walter L. Fisher arrived from Seattle yesterday and was accorded a rousing welcome by Cordova and was presented a memorial by the chamber of commerce asking that the coal lands of Alaska be sold in the same manner that other government lands are disposed of.

The memorial sets forth that the withdrawal from entry of the coal lands has completely paralyzed progress in the territory.

A MAMMOTH STOCK REDUCTION SALE

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT!

ON MONDAY, AUGUST 28th AT 10 O'CLOCK A. M.

We shall inaugurate a sale of high grade Furniture and House Furnishings, that will be an event in the history of this city, attracting buyers from distant points as well as from this immediate locality; offering at tremendous bargains

$75,000 WORTH OF FINE FURNITURE!

The present year of 1911 has been a rather disastrous season for manufacturers of furniture, because of the strike of factory employes at Grand Rapids, the fight in the metal bed industry, and other changing conditions affecting prices and output.

Alert to taking advantage of the situation for the benefit of our trade, we have overstocked ourselves and find that we must turn our excessive stock into cash.

On top of our excessive stock, one of the largest factories in Grand Rapids has shipped to us by mistake a lot of Bedroom Furniture, which they ask us to close out as best we can. Under these circumstances we have decided to offer a price sale that will convert goods into money in the shortest time possible.

This is not a quickly bought and hurried up sale, but a forced sale of very high class Furniture, that has been selected (except as to the consignment mentioned) with our usual care, to secure for our patrons the best values produced; values that only experience, thorough knowledge of the business and facilities can command.

In our regular business there is positively no discount or favoritism in our dealings, and it is only when so advertised that regular prices can be changed as in this sale and then, the reduction is to everybody alike and price plainly marked.

For the convenience of the many who will want to avail themselves of these prices, we have entirely rearranged our salesrooms so that each piece can be fully inspected. All Reduction Sale Prices are for cash only.

Patrons may have selections reserved for a reasonable time by making a payment at time of selection.

Goods packed for shipment by our expert packers at actual cost incurred.

GENERAL GRANT CAN'T SEE WHY MEN LEAVE SERVICE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—The reasons which prompt so many soldiers to seek release from the United States army by the purchase of their discharge are inexplicable to Major General Frederick D. Grant. He commanded the department of the east during the last fiscal year, and in a report to the war department, says that 623 applications for discharges were made during the year. "It seems incredible to me," General Grant says, "that so many soldiers, in times like the present, when industrial conditions in our country are not the best, should desire to leave the service, and are willing to pay a sum which to them is considerable for the privilege of doing so. When one thinks of the generous provision the government makes for its soldiers, this restlessness cannot be accounted for."

COMPETITION FOR STEEL ORDERS KEEN

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Competition for steel orders continued keen among the mills and fabricating shops last week. There is an evident intention to sell as much of the excess capacity as is possible during the next few months in anticipation of a dull season. The fabricating shops have been quite successful and even the smaller companies have their capacity sold for three months, while some of the larger shops have their schedule full for five or six months ahead.

MADERO TO BE NAMED FOR PRESIDENCY TODAY

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 27.—Francisco Madero will be formally nominated tomorrow for the presidency by delegates representing 1,500 clubs in national convention of the progressive party. To name the choice of the convention for vice president is by no means so simple. Today the credentials of the delegates were examined and the preliminary work of organizing the convention was done, but the serious part of the program is reserved for tomorrow. Tonight no name but that of Madero is suggested for the presidency, but four names will doubtless be placed before the convention for the vice presidency. Dr. Francisco Vasquez Gomez has retained many of his backers, who will do their best to keep his name on the ticket. His most dangerous opponent appears to be Jose Elino Suarez.

THE ANNEXATION BOGEY

THE use of political claptrap to influence elections is not confined to the United States. We are used to being told every four years that the country will go to pot unless the election is won by the party to which the speaker happens to belong. It is the accepted and inevitable thing, and all of us are reconciled to it. But some comfort may be found in the reflection that there are other countries and peoples that have to listen to the same buncombe.

For instance, just now Canada is experiencing a red-hot campaign in which the "paramount issue" is the reciprocity treaty with the United States. The treaty is supported by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Premier, and opposed by R. L. Borden, who is extremely anxious for Sir Wilfrid's job. As the most available means of influencing public opinion against the treaty, the opposition is confidently advising them that reciprocity is only the first step towards annexation.

This much stated, it is easy to imagine the opportunities of the campaign orator and editor. The Canadians are now learning what a frightful fate confronts them. The bond which unites them to England is to be torn asunder, they are to be grabbed bodily by the greedy Yankees and forced into unwilling union with the government of capitalism and corruption. Canada is to be wiped out of existence; it is to share the fate of Poland and Korea.

This much and more is in the picture. When election day comes we shall see with how much good sense the Canadian people have met the issue. If they are really in touch with prevailing sentiment on this side of the boundary line they must know that in this country the desire to annex Canada is about as widespread and important as the desire to annex Patagonia. There was a time when Canada wanted to come into the Union, but American sentiment rejected her advances. Now the Canadian temper has changed. Canada wants to be a real nation, to stand alone under an independent government, and on this side of the line nobody whose opinions are worth listening to would turn a hand to prevent the attainment of this ambition. The Canadians can accept reciprocity or reject it, just as they like, but they need not lose sleep over the fear of annexation.

THE VALUE OF SOMETHING FOR NOTHING

YESTERDAY'S press dispatches announce the end of the free newspaper experiment in Oklahoma City. It has been watched with interest for several months, and the end accords perfectly with most predictions. The free newspapers go out of existence.

In this case the adjective has no reference to the editorial policy; it means that the papers were distributed to the public without charge. There was no subscription price. Anybody and everybody could get The Oklahoma City Pointer, and later its rival, The Free Press, merely for the asking. Nor was it always necessary to ask. The publishers were so anxious to get their papers before the people that newsboys were paid to thrust copies into the hands of pedestrians. The most noticeable result of this policy was a large number of unread newspapers filling the streets and gutters, much to the disgust of the street-cleaning forces.

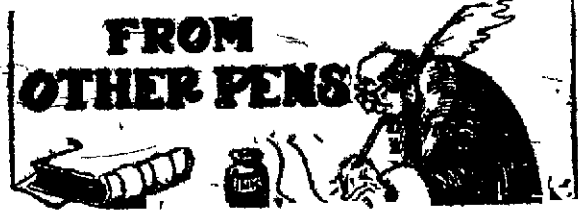

The theory on which all of this journalistic generosity was based sounded attractive enough. At best, circulation nets a small income to the publisher. White paper is expensive, so expensive that the quantity of it used in a big thirty or forty-page Sunday newspaper often costs the publisher more than it is sold for on the street. If it were not for the advertising the newspaper would immediately and completely go out of existence.

But these clever Oklahoma City publishers cherished a belief that by giving their papers away they could build up such extensive circulations as would justify advertising rates high enough to make their ventures profitable. They figured that the number of people who would read a newspaper which they received for nothing was practically equivalent to the number able to read. It was a beautiful dream. The publisher had only to take the most reliable statistics showing the population of his territory, compute from them the number of people above the age of 6 or 8, deduct a small percentage of adult illiterates, and then make up an advertising rate card based on the resultant figure as his potential circulation.

But the fatal error was the failure to consider the utter cheapness of something for nothing. Human nature is so constituted that we value only the things for which we pay. Whether payment is made in money, in toil, or in suffering, the result is the same: things bought at a price are valued accordingly. The thing that comes unsought and unpaid for is held as cheaply as it was obtained.

The experience of those two Oklahoma City publishers now sadder and wiser men, no doubt shows that the public places no higher value on a free newspaper than on a free handbill. So far as we know there was no complaint as to the quality of the product. The Pioneer and The Free Press were good enough newspapers; they represented at least an average expenditure of money and brains. But when the average citizen found a copy thrown on his doorstep or thrust into his hand unasked he placed the same value on it that he places on a handbill or circular distributed in the same way—that is, he might read it, or he might throw it away. That sort of circulation is worthless alike to the publisher and the advertiser, and it is not surprising that the experiment failed. The only wonder is that it was continued so long.

FROM OTHER PENS.
The cunning little yellow motor cars which whizz from the capitol to the senate office building are to be abolished because some day they might spoil a batch of senators. It may be remarked that Washington, apparently, places a higher valuation on senators, as such, than is current in certain other parts of the country.

HOME.
From the Detroit News: The people who take to the water these days in search of relief from the heat. The "relief" in most cases consists in burned and blistered backs, necks, faces, ears and toes. The old-fashioned peevishness in the camper's hair shirt was calm and collected in comparison with their condition. They have found out what the old-time swimmer tells, that in such days as try men's hides the waters of Lake St. Clair are smooth and shiny and alluring, but entirely hot. As a matter of fact, the only place with comfort in it is home home, with its ice box, its beady pitcher of lemonade, the shaded porch, the vine and fig tree.

TWO YEARS.
From Collier's.
It will be exactly two years next Saturday since the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill became a law. Look backward, do the standpatters and beneficiaries who made that tariff find satisfaction in their work? To put the question in the terms in which they regard the tariff, have they made much money during the past two years? Have they, indeed, made any money at all? Would they not have done better to accept that reasonable and well-proportioned protection which was proposed by the insurgents? Would they not have avoided the national resentment against a broken campaign promise, the determined agitation for another revision, the past and still to come, to the protective tariff party? Moreover, are the standpatters too obtuse to popular sentiment to realize that the people today are determined to have a more radical lowering of the tariff than they would have been content with two years ago? To this series of interrogatories the obvious end is the question whether a standpatter ever learns by experience.

PHOTOGRAPHING THE SOUL.
From the Philadelphia Inquirer.
A good deal of summer excitement is being stirred up here and elsewhere by proposals to photograph the soul as it departs from the dead body in some hospital or other. Alleged scientific statements are put forth which are either unscientific or else are perverted and misinterpreted. Of course, scientists would be very glad to photograph the soul of a human being as it takes its flight, but there are not many who think it is in any way possible. Most persons believe that the soul is utterly invisible and intangible, but there are some men of high scientific attainments who hold to the contrary.

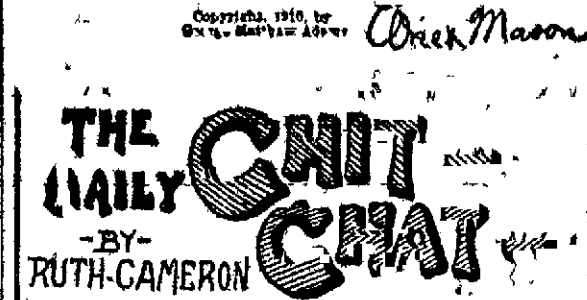

Among the ancients, and especially the Egyptians, the soul was believed to have a sort of envelope continuous with the body of its own, which it carried away, and this is largely the popular belief today. As the soul is depicted as shadowy creatures with the exact outlines and features of the mortal shell. Some learned French investigators have insisted that every human being has a sort of aura, or blaze of light, exuding from all parts, which may or may not be the soul. Usually this is only seen during a hypnotic state, though it has been alleged to be seen under normal conditions, but it may be that this effect is wholly subjective and not objective. It is certain that personality does exercise a greater or less influence outside of the body, usually for only short distances, but what this is we do not know. Telepathy has been credited with a great deal of late, but the trouble is that telepathy is a name only and not an explanation. We all want to know more about telepathy.

The proposed experiments are not likely to lead to anything, but if they should prove affirmatively that the soul is a photographable entity it would put a blight on those who believe, or profess to believe, that death ends all.

I sit sometimes at night alone, and think about my stock of woes until my bosom heaves a groan, and bring tears run down my nose. I think about the slights and slurs that I've endured throughout the day and all night long. I think about the cockleburrs when thinking that I have been the day. The more I think along this line, and dig up sorrows by the geck, the more my eyes produce the brine, until it oozes down my neck. And then the hausfrau comes along, and says: "Why are you moaning here?" Great Caesar, says she, "sing a song, and can the sob and flowing tears. No injun in this ballroom," the hausfrau says, with shining glance, "thas blessings round him half so thick, so kump yourself and sing and dance! It gives me seven yellow pains," the hausfrau arkues, as she stands "to see a man possessed of brains brood over his woes and wring his hands. Forget your griefs," the hausfrau ories, "forget your grievances and fears; I hate to see your pickled eyes, and mark your whiskers, soaked with tears." Then I forget my soul's turmoil, and buckle down and mow the lawn; and any man who tackles toll will find his tears and sorrows gone.

To have to wait on a sick person, in addition to doing one's regular work, is hard, no matter how well beloved the invalid.

Everyone who has ever tried amateur nursing knows that.

But there is one thing even more trying. And that is to be obliged to be waited on by someone who has other work to do, no matter how well intentioned and affectionate the nurse. Everyone who has ever been an amateur nurse must practically realize that.

For the sake both of the amateur nurse and the amateur nurse, may I suggest a few simple rules gained from experience on both sides of the fence? Before bringing up the true subject, the patient, imagine yourself eating the meal spread upon it. By doing this you may recall to mind any implement or accessory such as spoon or fork or salt or sugar, which you have forgotten. These things seem small to you, but to the patient they mean much. He does not like to ask you to go downstairs for the salt, and yet the absence of it may spoil his egg for him. If you are obliged to be absent for some time, give your invalid a piece of paper and a pencil that he may write down any request that occurs to him during your absence and not have to carry them in his head.

Tidy up the room and especially the bed frequently. We all know how cluttered with magazines and books and so forth a sick bed can become. We don't realize how much such confusion tries. A student of labor conditions says that a bricklayer can't do his work half so well when standing on a cluttered floor. The patient himself may not fully realize the bad effect of the clutter but he suffers from it just the same.

Acquire if you can the fine art of arranging pillows. Most people when called upon to arrange pillows simply plump down a couple at your back and let it go at that. I don't think one can sit up comfortably in bed with less than three pillows. And they should be scientifically arranged to support the middle of the back, the shoulders and the head.

Have your patient sit up in a big easy chair instead of in bed, when possible, as sitting up in bed is very tiring.

Never forget how much longer time seems to the invalid reckoning in terms of pain and ennui than it does to you reckoning in terms of activity. Do not insist upon doing things for the invalid when he feels that they are overtaxing himself. fretting over this may do him more harm than your advice would do good.

And above all things, remember that unless you give in love and forbearance and cheerfulness, the value of your service is nil. For grudging service to the sick is quite as cruel as neglect.

Lysander John Grows Bold

Since Aunt Cordelia's Appearance He Has Been Admitted to the Family Circle

By FRANCES L. GARSHIE
Because of the presence of a guest at the Appleton home, Lysander John is permitted to take part in the family discussions and encouraged to walk into the parlor, as if he were not afraid.

And before Aunt Cordelia's Updike had been there two weeks, he had lost so much of his timidity he didn't look apologetic when he sneezed, and no longer coughed behind his hand.

Daysey Mayme and Chauncey Devere were absent from home one evening, when, in the boldness of his temporary emancipation, Lysander John startled his wife and guest by asking this question: "Are children worth raising?"

"After he has seen the old look of nervous fear come over his face, but it was without reason, for instead of his question meeting a rebuff, it met with respectful and thoughtful consideration.

"They step on your toes when they are little," said Aunt Cordelia, "and step on your heart when they are big."

"I thought, when I let the children make mud pies on the parlor chairs, when they were little," said Mrs. Appleton, "I was an ideal mother, and they have had their own way ever since."

"We have burdened ourselves with debts to keep pace with their social ambitions," said Lysander John, "and as a result have a daughter who can paint a landscape that looks more like an escapee who can play with her hands crossed and her eyes on Saint Cecilia above her piano, and who has a place in the choir because she can't sing."

"She dropped her German as soon as she had bought a ton of textbooks, and informed every one that she was a German scholar; and she doesn't know enough of French to order a glass of water."

"She is so fashionably dressed she looks like a young man in a tuxedo," said Lysander John, "and as for our son," Lysander John thought of the joke he and his wife had perpetrated on the world; a joke with a cigarette in its mouth, clothes in the extreme fashion, and with no more idea in its head than there was in the head of the cane it sucked; a joke that in a few years would be labeled "A Man," and then Lysander John groaned.

"We will call in the woman next door," said Mrs. Appleton, "and let her answer the question."

"She came in with two babies clinging to her skirts and another in her arms, all in various stages of yellow, over through the walls were plainly heard the cries of two that were left at home."

The woman had been up many nights with a sick child, and her days were a monotonous round of work and worry. There were always little eyes and noses to wipe; little griefs to clear away and little mouths to fill. Her life was a series of days and nights that began and ended with service for others, and never a word of appreciation or any greater reward than a little kiss from a baby or a little arm slipped around her neck.

WHERE IS THY BROTHER?

Am I My Brother's Keeper? Crowds Attend Pastor Russell's Address to Richmond Bible Students.

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 27.—Pastor Russell of Brooklyn Tabernacle preached here today under the auspices of the International Bible Students association (local branch—unsectarian), composed of the truth-hungry from all denominations. Asked why such great crowds always attend his addresses while the churches of all denominations are complaining of slim attendance, Pastor Russell replied, "The people are thinking. Perplexed by the infidelity and higher criticism taught in the principal colleges and pulpits, many desire to have an interpretation of the Bible consistent with itself and not at war with the reverential exercise of reason. The scriptures foretell our day, saying, 'There shall be a famine in the land; not a famine for bread nor a thirst for water, but for the hearing of the Word of the Lord' (Amos viii, 11). No fairy tales can thoroughly satisfy intelligent thinkers, whose numbers are increasing. Many of those who attend my services and many who read my sermons in the public print, long since ceased to attend the church services."

"Two services were held—one for the public, considering the great 'Hereafter' the other, which we report, had for its text God's call to Cain after he had slain his brother, and Cain's reply, 'Where is thy brother?'—'Am I my brother's keeper?' (Genesis iv, 9). The speaker said in part—

No one can dispute that individualism, personal independence, personal responsibility, has done much for the development of our race. The sort of individualism of the past were unfavorable to individual thought, responsibility and action. No wise and good man would desire to rob his fellows of independence of mind.

We are in danger, however, of going to the opposite extreme—in danger of carrying the subject of personal independence too far—in danger of neglecting some who should have assistance—in danger of thinking of all men as being not only free but equal.

It was in view of inequalities of the flesh that St. Paul wrote to the church, 'We that are strong should bear with the infirmities of the weak, and not to please ourselves (merely)' (Romans xv, 1). This principle, applied by the apostle to the church, would certainly be appropriate to the relation of the church to the family—'Of one blood, God created all men to dwell upon the face of the whole earth' (Acts xvii, 26).

Where Is Thy Brother?

God's inquiry of Cain implied his responsibility, and teaches us a lesson respecting our responsibility in God's sight for one another. We will begin with the church, the highest type of brotherhood imaginable: We should not be content to split into sects and parties. Whatever was the ignorance of the past which led to the formation of the various creeds and denominations, there can be no excuse for these now, because Christians of all denominations have come to discredit the old creeds. Should there not then be a movement toward heart unity and fellowship, outside of denominational and creedal lines, amongst those who recognize God as the Father, the Lord Jesus Christ as the Redeemer, and the Bible as the Divine Revelation? It is not proper to say, as did Cain, 'Am I my brother's keeper?'

Every true Christian should realize that today Christianity is being assaulted in its own house and by its professed friends. In the colleges and seminaries of all denominations a battle is raging which threatens the destruction of our Christian faith. Possibly a few are blind to the situation, but the insurgents—the higher critics and evolutionists—realize the situation and are craftily saying to the people, 'We are the watchmen upon the walls of Zion; the higher critics are all is well.' The higher critics seem to have no conscience. They claim that the people must be gradually taken by guile. They encourage them to sleep while they raise over them the banner of infidelity called higher criticism.

Many who see the killing of this antitypical Abel shrink the responsibility by saying, 'Am I my brother's keeper?' not realizing that from the divine standpoint they have a responsibility toward every other Christian with whom they are in contact. They should realize that loyalty to God means that they should 'show forth the praises of him who hath called us out of darkness into his marvelous light.' In a word, every true Christian, who has made a full consecration of himself to the Lord to walk in the footsteps of the Savior, should wake up to the fact that we are in a critical time. We are in the time mentioned by St. Paul when 'every man's work shall be tried so as by fire' (I Corinthians iii, 13).

The Day of Recompense.

The all-seeing eye of our creator keeps watch over the affairs of his creatures today as it kept watch over Abel's interests. God allowed Cain to have his way; allowed him to kill his brother; allowed the righteous to suffer; yet Cain did not escape, but was held accountable for the death of his brother. God's sentence upon him separated him from his brethren until he cried out that his punishment was greater than he could bear.

And similarly we may be sure that the Cain class of our day will be held accountable for the wilful slaying of their brother, especially to the extent that the brother despised may be a child of God. As God declared that the blood of Abel cried to him from the ground—cried for justice—so the indignation of every kind, everywhere, will bring a 'just recompense of reward.'

St. James intimates that this release will come to this class at the coming of Messiah in power and great glory, at the establishment of his kingdom of righteousness in the world. He says, 'Have patience, brethren, the coming of the Lord draweth nigh.' The Lord speaks of this 'day of recompense' as a 'time of trouble,' the overthrow of oppression, the uplifting of the poor, and those that have no helper (Psalm lxxix, 12).

Human life is more governed by fortune than by reason.

IN THE EARLY DAYS

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

August 28, 1881.
The Durango Record boasted that two ladies of that city had ascended to the top of a mountain near there that was 12,000 feet high and that they were the first ladies to reach that altitude in America. The Gazette says that Mrs. Captain Berthoud, wife of the chief engineer of the Colorado Central, walked to the top of Pikes Peak in 1883, and that every summer there were numerous women following in her footsteps.

The Rev. W. L. Slutz, pastor of the First Methodist church in this city, returned from a week's visit to Denver and Greeley.

Chief Engineer Pixley, of the local fire department, left for a visit to the east. He expected to purchase a horse cart for the newly organized J. M. Sigafus Hose company while he was in Chicago.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

August 28, 1891.
Encouraged by the fine business done by the casino at Broadmoor, Manitou capitalists planned to erect a similar one near the Iron Springs hotel.

A week of sports at the Country club was being planned. It was to include all sorts of athletics and horse racing events.

The Gazette said "persons returning from Cripple Creek in the last few days bring the most encouraging reports from that struggling camp." Evidently the editor was skeptical regarding the value of the recent discoveries west of the Peak.

Seven Marvelous Achievements

History has always attached much importance to the Number Seven. "Of all numbers there is one which commanded, in a higher degree, the esteem and reverence of mankind." The Gazette has taken this charmed number, and has woven into stories on a variety of subjects a Series of Sevens, beginning each Monday and continuing during the week.

No. 1 HANNIBAL'S CROSSING THE ALPS

The passage of Hannibal over the Alps into Italy has always been considered one of the greatest achievements that an enterprising commander ever accomplished. To attempt to transport an army of 12,000 men, at an inclement season of the year, over mountains hitherto considered impassable, could only have suggested itself to a mind which no danger nor difficulty could appal.

In the first part of the ascent, Hannibal was led by some hostages, which the treacherous Gauls had given him as pledges of their pacific disposition. For two days these hostages marched at the head of the army; but when it had got into the hollow way, overlooked by steep and craggy rocks, faithless to their engagement they, in concert with others of their countrymen who had laid concealed, fell suddenly upon the troopers in front, flank and rear.

The greatest number attacked the rear; and the army would have been utterly destroyed, says Polybius, if Hannibal, who all along retained good sense of these barbarians, had not taken his precautions to guard against them by placing his baggage and his cavalry in the van, and his heavy armed infantry in the rear guard, who received the shots of the enemy. Notwithstanding this Hannibal lost a great number of men and beasts of burden; for the Gauls, having possessed themselves of the cliffs, rolled upon the Carthaginians huge stones which occasioned exceeding terror among them.

Hannibal was obliged, with one-half of the army, to remain all night in the open air upon a rock to defend the horses and beasts of carriage as they fled along through the straight below. The next day the enemy having retired, Hannibal rejoined his horse and baggage, and continued his march. At length, after nine days from the commencement of the ascent, he gained the summit of the mountains.

Here he stayed two days, that those of his men who, with infinite toil, had climbed to this height, might take breath; and that his sick and wounded, who were still behind and moving slowly on, might have time to crawl up. While the troops continued here they had the agreeable surprise of seeing many of the horses and beasts of burden which had fallen in the way or had been cast down driven out of it, and were thought lost, arrive safely at the camp, having followed the track of the army.

It was now the end of Autumn, and abundance of newly fallen snow covered the top of the mountain. Hannibal, perceiving his soldiers to be extremely discouraged by the sufferings they had already undergone and by the apprehension of those that were to come, called them together and led them to a convenient spot for taking an extensive view of the plains below. "There," said he, "cast your eyes over those large and fruitful countries. They are Gauls who inhabit them, are our friends. They are waiting for us, ready to scale the walls of Rome itself. What remains is all smoothness and descent. One battle gained, or two at most, and the capital of Italy will be ours."

The next day Hannibal broke up his camp and began to descend. The way was so steep and slippery in most places that the soldiers could neither keep on their feet nor recover themselves when they slipped, and the ground being covered with snow, it was difficult to keep the right path, while if they missed it they fell down frightful precipices, or were swallowed up in depths of snow.

The soldiers had all these dangers and difficulties with great fortitude, but at length they came to a place much worse than any they had before met with, and which took away their courage. The path for about

MANY FEATURES MUCH INTEREST ADDED TO FAIR IS MANIFESTED

STATE CELEBRATION AT PUEBLO, SEPT. 18-23

Premiums Totalling $25,000 Offered for Exhibits in Various Departments

The Colorado state fair will open at Pueblo September 18 and close September 23. It will be a night and day show, with the night program consisting of the wonderful exhibit of fireworks contracted for with the Fair company at a cost of $500 for each night of the fair. "The Last Days of Pompeii," complete in every detail, and a most wonderful pyrotechnical display, will be shown every night in addition to special pieces of historic and local interest. The magnitude of the fireworks display can be surmised when it is stated that 200 people take part in the program.

For the daily program, the races will perhaps interest the greatest number. This year the race program for the Colorado state fair will surpass any races to be held in the western half of the United States. There are 85 horses entered in the harness events, and in no event will there be less than nine starters. In the 2:30 pace there are 15 starters entered, and 17 starters entered in the 2:24 pace. There are five pacing races and three for the trotters. There will be three or more running races on the program each day of the fair.

Farmers' Exhibits.
The exhibition hall this year promises to be the most interesting feature of the fair to the farmers and fruit growers and their wives. The departments are complete, and the premiums total $15,000. The special premiums offered by various live stock associations will bring the value of the premiums up to more than $25,000.

For the first time the fair management has arranged for a milking contest. It has been so arranged that it will be a thorough test of milk cows in Colorado. Thoroughbred cattle, graded cattle and mongrels are eligible for entry. Every cow will be tested for her milk regardless of breeding or other conditions. Entries will be open up to September 19 at 12 o'clock. Just who owns the best milk cow in Colorado and what section of the state can produce the best milk will be proven by the state fair contest. Already about 30 cows have been entered for the test. It is hoped that at least 100 entries will be made before the contest is held.

As a special feature of the bee and honey department there will be daily lectures by Prof. Frank G. Odell of Lincoln, Neb., who will talk from a screened cage in which swarm thousands of live bees. Prof. Odell will demonstrate his theories in regard to the control of bees. Some of the facts he performs with the aid of the bees are highly sensational.

Rest Room for Women.
The management has arranged for an attractive rest room for women visitors of the fair this year, and many other improvements have been made to the buildings and grounds. The rest room is the gift of the women of Pueblo to the women of Colorado.

For the first time at the fair there will be a herd of mule-foot hogs; the new breed which is said to be cholera proof. Special premiums are offered in the horse, swine, cattle and sheep departments, and every bit of available space on the fairgrounds will be taken up in these departments.

The poultry department also promises to be the largest ever shown at the fair in the number of exhibits and the most excellent in the quality of the breeds shown. Colorado poultry is high scoring, and some fine birds will be entered at the fair this year.

In the various women's departments special pains have been taken to make them as attractive as possible. The largest number of entries in the history of the celebration will compete in the horticultural department, and this department might be compared to the "Garden of Eden" in the wealth of beautiful varieties of flowers and foliage which will be shown. The premiums in this department will be the largest ever offered at a fair west of the Mississippi river.

Exposition of Minerals.
For the first time there will also be an extensive mineral exhibit at the state fair. The exhibits of high-grade ore from the rich gold fields of the state, as well as the silver districts, will have a valuation of about $25,000. Several of the exhibits are secured by the fair under a heavy bond for their safe return. Practically every important mining section of the state will be represented in this department, which is to be made a permanent feature of the Colorado state fair.

Special low rates will be obtainable from all points of the state to Pueblo during the celebration, and the new Vail hotel, Congress hotel and numerous other hostleries will be prepared to care for 20,000 visitors at very reasonable rates. Hotel rates will be obtainable at from $1 per day upward, for room and board, the range being a wide one and suitable to any purse.

The wonderful progress made by Colorado during the last year will best be exemplified by the exhibits of stock, horticultural and agricultural products, and the fair this year will be a revelation to many and a liberal education. The management has been planning for the 1911 fair since the close of the remarkably successful one in 1910.

SPECIAL TO CANON CITY

The Denver and Rio Grande will run a special train to Canon City today to carry the delegates to the Knights of Pythias annual state grand lodge, which convenes there this week. The train will leave Colorado Springs at 12:30 o'clock.

The Utes, at this season, are not the only ones who are indulging in sun dance.

Women's Conference Also Attracts Great Attention. Many Inquiries In

Interest is becoming general throughout the state, and this city in particular, in the Dry Farming congress, which will be the big closing event of Colorado Springs' most notable year. The crops are being harvested now, and there is no longer doubt that the exposition will be a handsome affair, as there are plenty of exhibits of a high class to be brought in.

Alvin T. Steinfeld, editor of the Southwest Truth, the Rock Island's official publication, was in the city yesterday and is en route to Canon City and the eastern part of the country. He is getting up a dry land home edition of the magazine for October, and will draw material from that quarter. He says his chief, Mr. Cottrell, is preparing a fine exhibit for the Dry Farming congress. There is a lot of good material in the Panhandle country since the rains came on. Mr. Cottrell has arranged with Burke Potter of Payton to bring in a live milk cow that has been service on a dry land farm, to be used in illustrating some feature of his exhibit.

Secretary John T. Burns of the congress, in the September number of "Dry Farming," has prepared the following resume of the work as it stands at present:

Burns' Article.
Are you going to be a delegate and an exhibitor at the Sixth International Dry Farming congress? There has never been such need for the quick advancement of this movement as now. There has never before been such an opportunity to attend a convention so representative in its delegates and program. There is rarely so good an opportunity for farmers to take advantage of the geographical location of an agricultural convention as now. There has never, in the history of the world, been planned an agricultural convention of such magnitude and importance. Three conventions will be available to all delegates. The Sixth International Dry Farming congress is being addressed by men recognized as leaders in agricultural development and thought throughout the world. It is not possible for this issue of "Dry Farming" to definitely announce the program, but tentative acceptances have been received from Hon. James W. McHale, secretary of agriculture; Hon. W. M. Hays, secretary of the bureau of plant industry; the presidents of number of agricultural colleges; the experimental farmers of a number of states; members of the United States senate and house of representatives; the governors of four states; superintendents of farmers' institutes from several states, and communications from many farmers indicate that the attendance of actual farmers will far exceed that of any previous convention. Many of these farmers will be asked to speak.

Many Countries Represented.
In the international sections of the congress will be official delegates from Hungary, Brazil, Austria, France, India, Russia, Germany, Mexico, and the three western provinces of Canada. Expectant exhibitors are writing from many remote points for premium lists and information, and there is reason to look forward to interesting exhibits from Washington, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Utah, Oregon, California, western Nebraska, the Dakotas, New Mexico, western Kansas, Texas, Oklahoma and Colorado.

For the first time in the history of the Dry Farming congress, agricultural colleges have officially recognized this movement, through sending what is to be known as the International Conference of Agricultural Colleges and Experiment Stations. Some of the most brilliant educators and experimenters of this and other countries will attend this conference and address the Dry Farming congress.

It is planned that there will be two and one-half hours each morning during the congress devoted to institute work, the subject of the principal talks of the institute to be announced later. These institute sessions will be in charge of superintendents of farmers' institutes from four different states.

Farm Women's Congress.
The International Congress of Farm Women is attracting more attention than even its most enthusiastic promoters had hoped could be possible. The publishers of magazines, agricultural and women papers throughout Canada and the United States are devoting considerable space to the work of this congress. Letters from women workers among the farm women throughout the entire continent are evincing interest and making plans to be present and participate. Members of the American Country Life commission will participate in the program. Presidents of agricultural colleges and farm women, and many who are interested merely from the ethical viewpoint, have written to the secretary of the women's congress endorsing the plan and promising to be present. It is hoped that every delegate to the Dry Farming congress will find it possible to bring his wife, and that farmers who cannot attend will send their wives to this convention. The program will be given at a women's convention in the United States.

The Exposition.
The exposition will be within two blocks of the congress hall, will cover 200,000 feet of floor space, and will be free to all delegates. At certain hours during the day a large lecture room adjoining the exposition will be available for lectures on agricultural subjects. In addition to the regular congress program.

Thus far applications for space have been received amounting to about 7,000 square feet of floor space. These include the Alberta provincial exhibit; the McLeod district, all from Alberta; the Saskatchewan provincial exhibit; the Hardford county, Texas; the Rock Island railway territory in Oklahoma and Texas; and the federal department of agriculture exhibit.

Any farmer may individually send exhibits or may join with his district county or state in going after some of the grand prizes.

MILLIONS AHEAD OF ALL FIGURES

STRATTON'S INDEPENDENCE BIG SURPRISE

Gross Production of Bonanza Up to July 1, 1911, More Than $22,000,000

The gross production of the Stratton's Independence, Limited, of Cripple Creek, computed to July 1, 1911, has been more than $22,000,000, or $4,000,000 more than the figure heretofore estimated.

The real significance of this lies in the fact that in October, 1900, no less a person than John Hayes Hammond, noted mining expert, reported that the production of the mine in that date had been 105,000 tons, with a gross value of $5,250,000, and at that time he estimated the total reserve at 120,000 tons, with a valuation of not more than $2,250,000, or a total of $10,500,000, according to his report and estimate.

Before the sale to the syndicate of British financiers, Stratton took out $3,750,000, and the English syndicate has made an output of $18,250,000. With several million dollars of ore values in sight, and an estimated activity of another decade, the purchase price of $10,000,000, paid by the syndicate, does not appear to mining men to have been so exorbitant as it has been considered.

After the great caveat the company was heavily in debt—in 1908—and the stockholders were obliged to furnish a quarter of a million dollars out of their own pockets to pay off these debts. This amount was more than made up by the earnings of the next two years.

The report by Hammond, showing that the mine had produced at that time more than $5,250,000, and that it had only $2,250,000 in reserve, brought down the prices of the stock to such an extent that hundreds of stockholders were practically ruined. Others had faith in the property, in spite of the disappointing report of one of the world's greatest mining experts, and took up the stock at a low figure. Their faith apparently has been justified.

Price Not Exorbitant.

Up to July 1 last the report and estimated total was $11,500,000 too low. Good for 10 Years at Least.

In the opinion of the mine managers of the Cripple Creek district there remains in the mine a sufficient tonnage of ore to permit of at least another decade of mining, with the output during that time giving promise of being equally as valuable as in the past.

Thus the estimate of John Hayes Hammond was far too low for the real value. Just how much too low cannot even be estimated at present. His estimate was based on the accessible ore reserves at the date of his sampling them, overlooking the mine and the various levels and figuring on the possibility of working the mine. On that basis it is conceded to have been a good estimate, but as a system for determining the actual value of a Cripple Creek mine is considered practically worthless.

The Stratton's Independence, Limited, had a checked career. In 1899 Richard reported that he found 70,000 tons of good ore in sight, giving it a value of $3,712,000. This estimate of possibilities, taken with the Stratton's output before the sale by the late W. S. Stratton of this city, made a total of $10,579,000, which figures were practically checked up and proved to be far as it was possible for them to be proved by the report of Hammond. As a matter of fact, the proof proved to be as far from the actual facts as was the original estimate.

THE DAY'S NEWS IN SPORT CIRCLES

FOOTBALL THIS SEASON WILL BE PLAYED ALONG DIFFERENT LINES

What tactics will the successful coach in Colorado use this fall? Just now there are several football instructors and captains bemoaning their heads with plays for the coming season, now about two weeks away. Each coach and each captain has his idea of what general line of playing will bring victories to his team.

Already some of the coaches have been in conference with their leading players and have begun the construction of some novel plays that are calculated to fit into a general line of attack and defense that will make success in the majority of games. The Rocky Mountain region, where half a dozen teams will battle for the championship, the opinion seems to prevail that 1911 will see a season of offensive football. The defense, of great importance in all games, is to be neglected, if necessary, to better the offense. Tutors and players of some of the state eleven last fall now realize that too much attention was paid to fiddling up plays that would check the advance of opposing teams. Too little was given to the preparation of defense that would aid in attack.

During the coming season, however, more attention will be given more attention to those coaches who studied the situation seriously a year ago. That instructor who really possesses the power to make plays, who is original in conception of clever tricks, will prevail.

One wise Colorado coach will start the opening week of practice by developing players for the line and defense, for he means to have the problem of defensive play worked out early in the season. After that he intends to devote his time to the building up of plays that can be used with telling effect against the strongest contenders on his schedule. He has a line that can be depended upon to take care of its work and his energies therefore will be given to new formations.

In order to make the scoring machine a certain factor, this particular coach will drill his players in the use of a large number of plays. Some colleges in this section have suffered in recent years because, when their new plays failed to gain ground, they were left with nothing to fall back on.

This fall the wise coach will have an unknown number of plays. The spies that watch his team in action in early season will be surprised by what they see in later games. The formations for offense as well as the plays themselves will be changed. Spies will profit their teams but little in watching games in which the players handled by Rotherg take part.

There is a general feeling among football men that the coming season will be one in which the successful team will not hesitate to take a chance. Every opportunity is going to be risked for advancing the ball. The forward pass will be employed more than last season; trick plays, regarded as dangerous moves, and several seemingly fool-hardy risks will mark the play of the winning teams. This at least is the opinion prevailing now with the season about to open.

LANGFORD MATCHED TO BOX JEANNETTE

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—The new boxing law, by which pugilistic contests now come under the supervision of a state commission, goes into effect tomorrow, and the first game is expected to receive a new impetus in New York.

Evidence of the revival of the sport is given tonight in the announcement that Joe Jeannette and Sam Langford have been matched for a 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden, September 5, for the title of "light heavyweight champion of the world" and a purse of $10,000.

"Knockout" Brown will meet Matt Wells, the lightweight champion of England, at Madison Square garden, on Wednesday night.

VAN STONE'S EDUCATED ARM HOLDS ROBBINS TEAM, AND ZOOZ WIN 8 TO 2

Mr. L. Van Stone, and his educated elbow prevented all but three of the Robbins' hands from earning an honest dollar in yesterday's encounter on Mr. Coughlin's grass. The zealous Zooz turned on the opposition and beat them good and plenty in nine rounds of frayed ball. Score, Zooz 8, Robbins 2.

Speaking largely, many thanks for the upset are due to Van and the educated flipper. Before the battle the price on Robbins hits was bid up to one dollar per hit, but nobody cornered the market. The demon Mr. Van was a regular lawson in tipping off the front of the bit-market and those who followed his tip cashed in at the finish.

This was the only in-Lawson-like incident that occurred to mar an otherwise peaceful afternoon.

Just before the engagement opened Van was queried by a scribe as to his physical fitness and also asked up to the latest quotations on base hits.

"The higher the fever," said Van, "the better the pitcher." He was in the pink of condition (business of winding up) and if the other athletes give me any kind of support, I'll start 'em to death. If the infield hangs together, through the ninth inning—thats the game. I'm worried about—we will come across on the bit."

The truth of the great finger's tip was apparent as the game wore on to a close. Three hits marked up to a base each, were jarred from his anatomy during the combat. Patterson got a lucky one in the second, Fowler one in the seventh and Rahm hit for two dollars' worth in the same round.

There was practically no use for Zooz outfielders in yesterday's game as a casual lapping at the box will show. All of the work involved in killing off the opposition fell upon Messrs. Relly, who snuffed 13, Edmunds 12 and Altendorf two.

Van Stone struck out 10 and his pals played errorless ball behind him with the exception of Altendorf. The new second-baser handled seven chances without a bobble, but fell down on James' grounder in the seventh. This gave the Robbins one of their two runs, both of which were unearned. The Zooz outfield covered lots of ground in the warming up stunt, but the trim of sprinters had nothing to do during the game.

Pringle was good for seven innings, then he weakened. Bruce played his recall too long and in the eighth the Zooz batters struck their gait and hammered in four runs. Four hits, a base on balls, a wild pitch and an error did the business.

The game started pretty brisk, and for four rounds neither team got a man past second. The Zooz broke through in the fifth when Purcell and Van Stone singled, Gail pushed a fence-busting double to left-center and Purcell and Van both scored.

The Coughlins made another in the sixth on an error on Relly's grounder and a wild throw by Long. A base on balls to Van Stone scored a tally in the seventh. Gail also walked and Warbritton's hit to right scored Van Stone. A quick return from Purcell might have caught the pitcher at the plate.

In only one inning, the seventh, were the Robbins able to place a cloven hoof on the home dish. Fowler dropped a three-story fly in left and both runners were safe when Al assembled James' effort. Rahm shot one down the first base line that was good for two bases, Fowler and James scoring. The Zooz played a pretty tight game all through and in only two innings allowed the opposition to get a man on first.

White went in for the Robbins in the eighth after two had perished. Purcell was at bat and was half way to first with a base on balls when the new pitcher took up Purcell's burden. White sent him on his way with the two first balls he pitched, and the doubly-misunderstood passed scored later on Van Stone's two-base knock to right.

Six Springs Players Entered in State Tennis Tournament

Three teams from Colorado Springs have entered in the state tennis tournament to be played on the courts of the Denver Country club beginning today. The local teams to compete in the tournament are: Bissell and Carnall, Gardner and Wheeler, and Knowlton and Collins.

Entries for the tournament have been sent in from all parts of the state. Four players will be out from each state to take a chance at winning the cup. The successful ones will challenge the holders of the title last year, and it is probable that the championships will be played on Labor day.

A. Dodge of this city, who holds the state championship for singles, is in Europe, and probably will not return in time to defend his title. Johnsey and J. W. Graham hold the title doubles.

Thirty entries have been received for singles and 18 couples have entered for the doubles. Preliminary drawings resulted as follows:

GROVER CLEVELAND RISES LIKE ROCKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Grover Cleveland Alexander of the Phillies is the most sensational young pitcher who has landed in the big league in many a day. This time last year he was pitching for Syracuse in the New York state league. Today he is considered one of the stars of the National league.

Robert Harmon is another 1911 star. He was a good man last year, but lacked control, and was booked for the minor leagues. When Chance heard that Bresnahan was intending to send Harmon to the minors he put in a claim for the youngster. Chance's bid made Roger think twice, and he decided to retain Harmon. Bob is now one of the star right-handers of the game.

Van Gregg of Cleveland is another 1911 "find." Gregg is a southpaw from the far west. Jim McGuire landed the youngster for Cleveland. He is considered the best left-hander uncovered in years. American league rooters maintain that he is a better pitcher than Rucker of Brooklyn, Elmer Steele of Pittsburgh is pitching splendidly for Fred Clarke. This youngster is a "comeback." He was tried with the Boston Americans some years ago and turned back to the minor leagues. Pittsburgh picked him up in the Eastern league, and he has been doing good work ever since.

Top-liners whose grand work makes their teams the favorites for the pennants in the two big leagues. Managerial Brown (above on the left), is the chief defensive strength of the Cubs in their battle to bring the National consolation to Chicago. He is again pitching in the wonderful form that won three other pennants for Chance. Frank Schulte (at the bottom), is the Cub's best in the aggressive department. Eddie Collins (left center), is half of the scoring machine of the Philadelphia Athletics. His consistent hitting and brilliant base-running feature every game played by Connie Mack's charges. Jack Coombs (above, on the right), is the best of the Quaker pitchers. In event that the Athletics and Cubs come together in the world's series, which now seems likely, fans all over the country will watch the duels between Brown and Coombs and between Collins and Schulte.

LATEST DOPE ON WRESTLING MATCH FAVORS GOTCH TO REAL LION

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—Ten days before the match with Hackenschmidt, Gotch has so far developed his physical energies that his trainers feel the rest of the time can be devoted to deciding on the tactics which the Iowa man shall follow, enough daily exercise of course being given to keep the wrestler on edge. Gotch is taking runs, plunges and limbering exercises, included in which are games of handball played at high speed.

To supplement his great strength and scientific knowledge of the wrestling game, Gotch will make use of his noodle on the mat. If he lacks anything in brute force to match the physical powers of the Russian, he expects to more than compensate for the deficiency with the exercise of his mentality.

It has been a much-mooted question in Gotch's camp whether he should take the aggressive against Hackenschmidt or should let the Russian have the initiative. It is believed that Burns and Klank favor Gotch's going after his man from the start and looping after him on the theory that the Russian may be driven to mental panic. Gotch is said to have given his sanction tentatively to the aggressive plan of action with the reservation that he will modify his methods if they do not seem in the actual combat to be wise. He is a believer in the practice of taking care of the developments as they come along and credits much of his past success to this plan of action.

Farmer Burns says if Hackenschmidt beats Gotch in this match the latter will not be able truthfully to say he was not in the best possible condition, unless there should be a marked impairment of that condition in the few days remaining before the match. Gotch has been going after his trainers hard, and they in turn have given him some bruising bumps. If roughing it is the thing Gotch needed to bring him up to the maximum of wrestling efficiency, there should be no doubt of his being well tempered. Burns has had to warn Rodgers and Westergaard repeatedly to avoid inflicting injury on Gotch during the training bouts.

The almost savage spirit with which Gotch has tackled his training squad from day to day is one of the features that have caused his townsmen and friends to believe he will give the very best account of himself.

Hackenschmidt, testifying to his own condition, says he has been rid of the little annoyances that followed his arrival in Chicago, and that he now is in perfect shape for putting the finishing touches on his training. Outwardly, he seems to have not the slightest fear of defeat. He outweighs Gotch by nearly 20 pounds, but expects to eliminate a few pounds before the match. As he is heavier in physique, so also he appears heavier in mentality than Gotch, although he matches his opponent well in optimism.

"Hack" is taking eight full hours of sleep daily, indulges in long walks and slow runs, plays with the medicine ball and exercises vigorously with the weights. Next week his program calls for many stiff bouts with his training partners. He will keep at it until Dr. Roller is satisfied that his condition is just right and then he will taper off on his work and make every effort to avoid going stale.

GIRL DEFEATS MEN IN 15-MILE SWIM

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Elaire Golding of Bath Beach today swam from the Battery in New York to Coney Island, 15 miles.

Miss Golding is 20 years old and weighs 150 pounds. She has won many championships at short and middle distances, but today she made her first effort at long distance. Her time, one minute more than six hours, is regarded as exceptional, as a heavy rain fell all the time, and the sea was choppy.

The women started. Mrs. Arthur Bouton gave up exhausted half way, while Lillian Howard finished an hour later than Miss Golding. An hour after the women's race, 14 men started over the same course, but only one finished.

NEW WORLD'S RECORD MADE BY MOTORCYCLIST

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Aug. 27.—Charles Herman of Terre Haute, in the Terre Haute Motorcycle Club's 100-mile race at the Vincennes county fair grounds today broke the world's motorcycle record. His time was 2 hours, 13 minutes, 35 1-5 seconds.

"Hack" twice, and he believes he has taken full stock of the powers and science of the Russian. It is pointed out also that Gotch handled Hassan much more easily than did Hackenschmidt.

The exhaustion shown by his trainers after violent clashing on the mat has not manifested itself in Hackenschmidt. He invariably has left the bouts without apparent distress, breathing well and with excellent color and clear eyes.

"I feel that this plan of semirest after my weeks of hard work in England has worked wonders with me," said Hackenschmidt. "Now that I am used to this lake air, I like it. It braces me up and puts the right kind of fighting spirit in me."

Gotch is giving attention to the development of the famous toe hold with which he has turned many a good man on his back and prepared the way for a fall. He also has been perfecting a new crock hold which, according to his trainers, is a vicious grip hard for any man to release himself from. The feature of this hold is that it paves the way to others which the champion uses with almost unfailing success.

Having brought his powers of endurance and his strength up to the desired point, Gotch is now developing still further his "speeding-up" tactics. At psychological times, if not throughout the match, it is said, he will work at a whirlwind pace and will try to achieve the unexpected.

He feels that he knows the strong and the weak points of the Russian better than formerly, and that he will be better qualified to meet the first and take advantage of the latter. He is aware that Hackenschmidt will never give up until an extremity compels him to do so.

Charles Pash, who has wrestled both Hackenschmidt and Gotch, says of the coming match:

"After 30 minutes in the ring, Hack will forget what Dr. Roller has told him. His arms weaken in 30 minutes. His greatest strength is in his arms. When he loses it he starts business with his body, while Gotch uses only his grip and the power of his forearm. Then Gotch will take him by surprise with a trick hold or some other unlooked-for movement."

"This match is going to be the greatest ever seen in this country. All the tricks and science in the game will be disclosed. There will be only one kind of a finish—Hackenschmidt, underneath, his marvelous strength fairly squeezed and wheeled out of him. Gotch will win. I honestly believe that, basing my prediction on a personal experience with both men."

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—Ed Walsh pitched the first no-hit, no-run game of his career against Boston today. This was the second game of the kind this season in the American league. The locals won today's game by 5 to 0. Wood of Boston is the only other man who has pitched a no-hit, no-run game this year. Only one of the visitors reached first base today. Early in the game Hendrickson and Speaker collided while running for Tannehill's long fly and both were knocked out for some time. Speaker retired from the game and Hendrickson was taken to a hospital suffering with severe pains in his shoulders, ribs and legs.

BANK OPENS TODAY

Uncle Sam's postal savings bank in Colorado Springs will be opened at 9 o'clock this morning with Assistant Postmaster Allen in charge.

Deposits, no matter how small, will draw 2 per cent interest beginning on the first day of each month succeeding the time of deposit. For this reason postoffice officials are anxious to have all deposits in hand before September 1. It is probable that a postoffice inspector from Denver will be in Colorado Springs today to direct the work in connection with the opening.

The Colorado Springs National bank will be a depository for the bank. The First National, El Paso National and the Colorado Title and Trust company have also been designated as deposi-tories.

A WONDERFUL SIGHT

grandeur of the trip, the Cripple Creek dissect itself is "one of the world's
